Affidavit of Financial Support

Berkeley College is required by United States immigration regulations to verify that international students have sufficient financial resources to study in the United States. Students must demonstrate access to the following minimum amounts:

- US$ 43,000 for one academic year (Undergraduate Programs)
- US$ 34,000 for one academic year (Graduate Programs)
- US$ 22,000 for one semester (Study Abroad Non-Degree Programs)

An additional US$10,000 in financial support is required for each dependent accompanying the student to the United States. Scholarships awarded by Berkeley College may be deducted from the applicable program's minimum financial support requirement listed above. The amount required for proof of financial support is an estimate of tuition and living expenses and is not payable to Berkeley College. Actual charges may vary based on enrollment. Students should be prepared to cover the cost of each year of study. This form can be copied and used for additional sponsors, if needed.
